

AleGloria

In the very heart of Warsaw, strawberries are in full riotous bloom and white geese have flown in to chase the rain and grey away. Magda Gessler - a well-known creator of unique tastes and famed interior designer – invites you to Plac Trzech Krzyży for a succulent meal in a delightful setting. Chandeliers, angel feathers and fresh flowers create a gently optimistic atmosphere, while the comfy sofas, wooden tables and perfect service make your visit a relaxing experience. Despite the fact that the restaurant is downstairs, there is no sense of dark or damp – it is a playful, fun interior, perfect for romantic dinners, business lunches and family Sunday Luncheons with children.

AleGloria specialises in New Polish cuisine, a form of culinary fusion which takes traditional Polish dishes and tastes and adds unusual and surprisingly modern twists to them, resulting in fascinating dishes of great sensorial beauty. For example, the borsch (beetroot soup) at AleGloria is mixed with raspberry syrup and the beets are marinated in balsamic vinegar – it is amazing that the most well-known and traditional soup in the country may be given such subtle touches which have a big impact on the flavour. For a main dish, it is recommended to try the deer hide (marinated three times in wine), drizzled with fresh cream and served on a bed of Polish forest mushrooms. Whatever you do, don't forego dessert: this is an opportunity to try classic Polish sweets with unique touches and flavours – so indulge in this amazing combination of Old and New Poland, with taste, style and sweetness.

And take note that you will be among very distinguished company when you visit our restaurant: supermodel Claudia Schiffer, actress Sharon Stone, Brit singers Tom Jones and Chris de Burgh, celebrity chef Nigella Lawson and operatic powerhouse Placido Domingo have all graced us with their presence – we take great pride in satisfying all our guests and teasing and pleasing their palates.
